SQUALOR AND SPLENDOR: EXPAT TALES OF EAST AND WEST

iUniverse. Paperback. Condition: New. 172 pages. Dimensions: 9.1in. x 6.0in. x 0.5in. SQUALOR AND SPLENDOR, Tales of East and West, is a series of unusual travel stories that take place in Europe and Asia covering the Philippines, Japan, Indonesia (Bali), Papua New Guinea, England, Spain, and Morocco. The title refers to the two polarities of the travelers experience: unpleasant encounters and observations of degrading experiences balanced by the ecstasy of beautiful lands and new and fascinating experiences. Flesh deals with prostitution in the Philippines and the narrators strange reaction to it. Revolution portrays a spoiled, bored member of the Marcos class that was to fall in the revolution of 86. Million Girls is the story of a typical Philippine prostitute. Boracay is the odd story of a man who mistakes a young Filipino transvestite for a girl. Green Man is a parable of reverse racism in Japan. Jean Shrimpton relates the oddly connected experiences of a man in London over a period of eighteen years. Wimbledon is about a student who has a not so idyllic experience as a cook in a steak house. Bali deals with the negative effects of tourism on that no longer enchanted island. Morocco shows a young westerner encountering the drug and hippie culture, along with a persistent boy prostitute, in that atypical Muslim country. Hemingway is an ironic look at the Hemingway heroic myth in Spain. Siquijor is an account of faith healing and magic on that island in the Philippines. The subject is a well-known faith healer named Tibor. This item ships from multiple locations. Your book may arrive from Roseburg,OR, La Vergne,TN. Paperback.
